PAID SOME BIG BILLS

Finance Committee of Council Met Today.

SOME MONEY IN THE TREASURY

But the Amount Is Small—No More Interest While the City Has Funds. Anticipating the Apportionment to Help Along.

An important meeting of finance committee was held in the office of J. J. Purinton this morning, and a few pressing debts were ordered paid.

The meeting was attended by Mr. Purinton, Mr. Kent and Doctor Marshall, and was brief. The object was to pay several pressing bills, and get them out of the way as soon as possible. Notes to the amount of $7,659 were ordered paid from money in the treasury, and Contractor Ryan's bill for $5,000 was settled. The money is in the treasury, and the committee could not see the good judgment in borrowing when they had the money. The action means that the city's creditors will in future not wait for their money if there happen to be funds in the treasury. There is nothing more to pay until the December payroll appears to annoy council, and enough money can easily be borrowed to liquidate the claims while the interest on the amount used today will be saved. In January the apportionment will be here, and the treasury will once again know the presence of cash. Another source of income will be the proceeds of the bonds to be sold tomorrow. They cover the improvements of Avondale, Calcutta and Nemo alley. The sewer bonds will also be disposed of. It is the principle of finance committee not to borrow as long as there is a cent in the treasury.

CURT WELCH IS DEAD

And There Is No Longer Use For an Old Rule.

The Chicago News of recent date has this:

"A change in the rules much advocated by numerous players relates to that section which does not give a man a base when hit on the hand or forearm. It is argued that the rule should be so changed as to give a man a pass when hit on the back of the hand or the wrist, for nobody would intentionally take a pitched ball where it would be apt to disable his hand. That rule was only framed in the first place to stop the trickery of Curtis Welch, and Welch is dead, while with him went the necessity for such a law. Welch could reach out his arm and glance the swiftest ball off the muscles without receiving the slightest injury, but no one has ever been able to duplicate the trick as he performed it."

MADE HIM HAPPY.

Trustee Beardmore Helped a Barefoot Boy.

Trustee Beardmore made one boy happy late Saturday afternoon. The wind was cold, and the warmly-clad township official intuitively shivered as he saw a youngster standing on the street with his bare legs and feet blue with cold. He inquired the boy's name, and found he had brothers and sisters who were in an equally bad way. The boy was soon provided with shoes and stockings. Mr. Beardmore wants those charitable people who have any spare clothing about the house to send it to the office of the trustees, so these suffering children can at least be comfortably clad.

EAST END IS TALKING.

A Jealous Husband Makes Food For The Gossips.

East End is now watching the progress of a full fledged sensation. Something over a year ago a loving couple were married and settled down in a cozy little home in the eastern part of the city. The husband became insanely jealous of his wife, and watched her closely, but he clapped the climax the early part of last week by arming himself with a revolver and butcher knife, and staying away from his work, was near home all day. The news came to the ears of his loving wife, and she at once went to the home of friends, where she is at present.

COMPETITION.

The Small Boy Has Started to Work the Bell Company.

Wucherer addition lads are never at a loss to find some kind of amusement. Their latest is a telephone line strung from a building to another point of vantage. Strong twine is substituted for wire, and baking powder cans serve very well as receivers. The lads converse with each other at any distance, and derive a great deal of pleasure from the scheme. A telephone exchange has been established in a stable, and no charge is made for the privilege of talking over the line.

A SMART THIEF.

He Stole a Hat and Ran Down an Alley.

The police are looking for an individual today who stole a hat from George C. Murphy's place of business, in the Diamond, Saturday night. The thief gazed in the store a few moments, and seeing the clerks were behind the counter, he opened the door, walked in, and snatching up a hat, he turned. Darting out, he disappeared down an alley. A clerk attempted to follow, but the bold thief was too speedy, and made good his escape. A description of the fellow was obtained, and he will be arrested if found.

ONLY A CANARD.

But It Frightened the Friends of Herbert Bloor.

A report was current on the street yesterday which said that a telegram had been received from Chicago saying that Herbert Bloor, formerly well known in this city, had been shot and killed in Chicago. A reporter called at the Bloor residence on Market street, and learned that a telegram had been received saying that he was very ill, but when a message was sent an answer came back that he was in the best of health, and some mistake had been made.

NO LICENSES.

Shanty Boats Are Tied to the Bank Illegally.

The last legislature passed a law compelling the owners of shanty boats to pay a license fee each year for the privilege of existence. In some counties the fee has been collected, and licenses issued as the law directs, but nothing has been done in this county. Along the river front of this city alone there are enough boats to pay many times for the expense of collection, but a telephone message to the probate court brought the information that no steps had yet been taken.

IT PAYS

To Raise Tobacco In Many of Ohio's Counties.

Although few people think of Ohio as a tobacco growing district, it has 50,000 acres under cultivation and produces annually 30,000,000 pounds, or one-third of the entire crop of the country. It is grown more or less in 53 of the 88 counties, and the tobacco farms of Wayne and Medina counties are especially profitable.

The best Ohio tobacco is grown in the sandy, loam soil, and the Spanish seed leaf does especially well.

IT LOOKS NATURAL.

Towns Along the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Are Booming.

A well known commercial man, who travels much and ever has his eyes open, is responsible for the statement that it has been several years since he saw the towns along the Cleveland and Pittsburgh so prosperous and busy. The Ironclad tin mill is employing more men than at any time for months, and the order book is full. The mines about Salineville are making up for lost time, and even the country towns present a more animated appearance.

THEY ARE AMBITIOUS.

Delmonico Boys Are Talking of a Club House.

Enthusiasm with the success of their dining club, the Delmonico organization are discussing the matter of a club house. Many of the members are in favor purchasing a plot of ground and erecting a substantial building. Beside taking their meals there it is proposed to have sleeping quarters placed in the building. A meeting will be held Monday evening and the contemplated project discussed.

NO MORE BOOKS

Until Diphtheria Has Entirely Disappeared.

The scholars of the Presbyterian Sunday school will have no more library books issued to them while the diphtheria scourge exists in the city. Several members of the school have been afflicted with the disease, and lest the germs of it be carried by the books they borrowed, the above action was decided upon. The course was advised by several physicians. As a precaution some books were fumigated.

To Sell Ware.

George Thompson went west this morning in the interest of the Thompson pottery, and Thomas Smith started on an eastern trip with the line of Wallace & Chetwynd.

TRIED TO FIRE A HOUSE

A Dastardly Outrage at a Hill Residence.

SATURATED A SACK WITH OIL

It Was Then Laid on the Cellar Door and the Match Applied—Discovered In Time to Save the Building—No Clue to the Parties.

Some unprincipled person attempted to destroy the residence of Capt. W. F. Dawson, Highland street, yesterday afternoon.

The captain and his family were spending the afternoon at home when a small son of Thompson Pollock rushed into the room, and excitedly informed them the house was on fire. They were not long in finding that a cloud of flame and smoke was rolling up from the rear of the building, and hastening to the scene they soon found it all came from the cellar door. A few buckets of water extinguished the flames, and Captain Dawson had time to investigate the cause. He found that a sack saturated with oil had been laid on the door and the match applied. It was placed so close to the building that in a few minutes the house would have been in flames. That it was a deliberate attempt at incendiarism Captain Dawson is compelled to admit, for there were no sacks about the house, and there could not have been one soaked in oil. There is no clue to the parties who attempted the dastardly outrage.

A BROKEN COLLAR BONE

Was Worn by a Player in the Eclipse Game.

The football game at Toronto Saturday between the Eclipse team, of this city, and the Acmes, of Steubenville, was an interesting contest, and was won by the Steubenville boys five minutes before time was called in the first half, McSwiggen going around the left end for a touchdown from which goal was kicked, making the score 6 to 0. In the second half both teams struggled hard to score, and at one time the ball was on the Steubenville five-yard line, but was stolen from McCutchen, thus spoiling all chances of the Eclipse scoring. The game was cleanly played, and there is a marked difference between the Acme and Steubenville Athletic club teams, as the home boys were never treated better than by the former club, while the actions of the latter eleven were the roughest they ever experienced. The Acmes will meet the Eclipse on the home grounds next Saturday afternoon, and a good contest can be expected as they are undoubtedly the strongest club in Steubenville, and if the home team wins the refusal of the Steubenville Athletic club to meet them again will amount to nothing. During the progress of the game the fullback of the Acmes had his collar bone broken.

BROKE HIS ARM.

Harry Watkins Fell Off a Car at the Horn Switch.

Harry, the 14-year-old son of Thomas Watkins, of West Market street, had a small bone in his arm broken Saturday afternoon. The lad, with several companions, was playing on the cars standing on the Horn switch, near the Union planing mill, when he tripped and fell to the ground. He was taken home and suffered great pain as the result of the accident. The fracture was set to-day.

APPLIED A MATCH.

And a House Was Almost Destroyed by Fire.

A small girl last evening applied a lighted match to a quantity of grass piled against the house occupied by Mrs. A. Patterson, at Forest and Walnut streets. The flames shot high in the air in an instant, and scorched the building, but did no other damage. Before the house was really in danger a few neighbors appeared with buckets of water, and the fire was extinguished.

DOWN THEY GO.

Objectionable Telephone Poles to Be Removed From Jackson.

The street committee will not be compelled to take down the telephone poles on Jackson street which were placed there without permission. Superintendent of Construction Hall called on Chairman Kent last week to see if matters could not be arranged satisfactorily, and finally agreed to have the objectionable poles removed today.

SMALL CASES

Seem to Be the Order of the Day in Lisbon.

Lisbon, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The case in which Quay & Co. recently got judgment for $35 against Sadie Smith in the court of Squire Rose, was appealed to common pleas today.

Walter Mather filed an action to recover $300 from E. L. Kusel. Mather was employed by the defendant to operate a merry-go-round, and charges the contract was broken.

Chamberlain Bros., of Columbiana, got judgment against J. W. Woolan for $411.37.

The court found from the report of the referee in the case of Henry Kugle against Emma Dalzell that the former is entitled to a judgment of $1,000.

A SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Doctor Lee Was Informed of His Mother's Death Today.

Rev. John Lloyd Lee received word yesterday that his mother was very ill at her home in Missouri. He made all preparations to go to her bedside, and was about to purchase a railroad ticket this morning when a telegram came announcing her death. She had been ill but a short time, and until a week ago was walking about her room. Mrs. Lee was 65 years of age.

Doctor Lee abandoned his western trip, and will attend the funeral at Crestline next Thursday. Interment will be in the family burying ground at that place. The reverend gentleman was deeply attached to his mother, and has the sympathy of very many friends in his bereavement.

WAITING FOR BIDS.

Clerk Hanley Has Received No Proposals For Bonds.

Clerk Hanley sat in his office today, and waited patiently for some bidder to send word that he wanted the bonds East Liverpool has for sale. He waited all day, but no bidders came. That is no reason, however, to think there will not be a number of proposals in the hands of the clerk tomorrow. The bonds amount to $22,448, and the money is to pay for street and sewer improvements in the city.

A COMPROMISE.

George Zink Was Not Long Delayed at Ironclad.

George Zink, who was arrested Saturday afternoon by Marshal Hanlin, of Ironclad, and taken before Squire Householder, of Hammondsville, was only detained a few hours. The young man succeeded in effecting a compromise, and the case against him will likely be dropped.

A GOOD LIST

Will the Naval Reserve Have Next Wednesday.

Thirty people have signified their intention of joining the naval reserve at the meeting Wednesday evening, to be held in the armory. If the formation of the company is successful, a joint agreement will be made with Captain Hill to use the rink 52 nights in the year for drilling.

THE CROWD DISPERSED

Before the Patrol and the Officers Arrived.

A police call from the lower part of the city was sent in to the fire station Saturday evening, and Officer McMillan was at once dispatched to the scene. A small disturbance was in progress for a time, but those who caused it disappeared before the officer arrived.

James Claims Persecution.

Jim Sharp says he is the victim of a great deal of persecution. He claims his relatives are conspiring to deprive him of a home, and have cast odium on his name to such an extent that it is only with difficulty he can procure work.

Too Much Work.

Two young men, who have been keeping back for hall on East Market street, during the absence of the lady of the house this morning became disgusted with this mode of living, and sought a boarding house. Their friends are poking fun at them.

A Good Company.

J. E. Murry, representing the "Fast Mail," was in the city today arranging for the appearance of his company in this city the evening of Nov. 23. The company will be readily remembered by those who heard the play two years ago.

Progress This Week.

Workmen began Saturday evening to place in position the beams upon which the floor of the bridge will rest, and if all the weather of the week is as it is today, the work will be finished next Saturday.

Better Days.

There is a quiet aspect around city hall today, and the mayor's docket bore evidence that no arrests were made Saturday night. His honor was heard sadly singing, "We Have Seen Better Days."

MR. PURINTON'S VIEW

A Word From the President of Council.

NOT SO MUCH ANOTHER TERM

As His Desire to Protect Property Owners Is This Street Railway Ordinance—He Has No Desire to Be a Model For a Local Paper.

When President Purinton was asked this morning what he had to say in reply to the vicious attack of a local paper last Saturday afternoon, he gave out the following signed statement.

"I have nothing to say, except that the publication of the ordinance in question was held back by me personally for a purpose, as both Mr. Hanley and Mr. Betz will testify to. If council is asking too much, we want to know it from citizens and taxpayers not directly interested in the enterprise, and they may rest assured their interests will be fully protected. I assure the people their will is supreme. As to the Crisis' attack on me, I only ask the people to consider the source. I have never been its ideal, never expect to be, and would not if I could. My actions in this, as well as others, have not and will not be for the purpose of being returned to council or any other position of trust. As long as I make my mistakes in favor of the people as a whole, I will be satisfied.

"JOHN J. PURINTON."

COUNCIL MUST PROTECT

The City and Its People Against Encroachments.

Col. W. C. Watson, whose councilmanic experience covered some troublesome times, said today:

"If our citizens will take the trouble to read over the revised ordinances, or the combination of laws passed by council after days of conference and labor, and then inspect the tracks of the East Liverpool and Wellsville railway, they will see how difficult it is to formulate and enact an ordinance satisfactory to such corporations, and at the same time save the people from damage. I may say that either the ordinances passed governing said road are defective or the enforcement neglected. It seems both.

"No doubt the troubles of the past were in the minds of our council when the measure to govern the new road came before that body, and they no doubt had an honest desire to save the city whole against damage to streets, etc.

"However, I think it excessive to charge one per cent on their earnings in any shape.

"They should be governed by a just and equitable law that will save the city from expense or damage, and I fully believe that council will, when the matter is put before them in the correct light, so amend the law just passed as to be satisfactory to all interested."

Forcefully Ejected

Special Officer John Powell ejected a drunken man from the Grand, Saturday evening. The individual was of the opinion he was a better performer than the parties on the stage, and announced the fact in a loud voice on several occasions, until it became necessary to put him out, where his talent could have full sway without annoying any person.

Made One Woman Happy.

Mrs. Mary L. Young, widow of the late Robert Young, received word this morning, through Justice Rose, that she had been granted a pension of $12 per month. Her husband served in the late war as a member of the Seventh Illinois cavalry.

A Likely Story.

Some Wellsville individual writes a Pittsburg paper that the Republicans naturalized a lot of Italians, but when they voted they put their marks under the rooster, not having sense enough to know the difference between an eagle and a rooster.

No Thanksgiving Rates.

It is announced that the railroads will give no special rates for Thanksgiving. Heretofore low fare for the round trip was allowed, but it did not produce the desired patronage, and the Pennsylvania company will not have it this year.

Died This Morning.

An infant child of Howard Mercer, fifth street, died at an early hour this morning. The funeral took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment was made at Spring Grove.

They Still Play.

The small boys continue to play football on the streets despite the efforts of the police to stop them. An accident will yet occur if the practice continues.

BROKE HIS ARM.

Harry Watkins Fell Off a Car at the Horn Switch.

Harry, the 14-year-old son of Thomas Watkins, of West Market street, had a small bone in his arm broken Saturday afternoon. The lad, with several companions, was playing on the cars standing on the Horn switch, near the Union planing mill, when he tripped and fell to the ground. He was taken home and suffered great pain as the result of the accident. The fracture was set to-day.

APPLIED A MATCH.

And a House Was Almost Destroyed by Fire.

A small girl last evening applied a lighted match to a quantity of grass piled against the house occupied by Mrs. A. Patterson, at Forest and Walnut streets. The flames shot high in the air in an instant, and scorched the building, but did no other damage. Before the house was really in danger a few neighbors appeared with buckets of water, and the fire was extinguished.

DOWN THEY GO.

Objectionable Telephone Poles to Be Removed From Jackson.

The street committee will not be compelled to take down the telephone poles on Jackson street which were placed there without permission. Superintendent of Construction Hall called on Chairman Kent last week to see if matters could not be arranged satisfactorily, and finally agreed to have the objectionable poles removed today.

SMALL CASES

Seem to Be the Order of the Day in Lisbon.

Lisbon, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The case in which Quay & Co. recently got judgment for $35 against Sadie Smith in the court of Squire Rose, was appealed to common pleas today.

Walter Mather filed an action to recover $300 from E. L. Kuel. Mather was employed by the defendant to operate a merry-go-round, and charges the contract was broken.

Chamberlain Bros., of Columbiana, got judgment against J. W. Woollan for $411.37.

The court found from the report of the referee in the case of Henry Kugle against Emma Dalzell that the former is entitled to a judgment of $1,000.

A SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Doctor Lee Was Informed of His Mother's Death Today.

Rev. John Lloyd Lee received word yesterday that his mother was very ill at her home in Missouri. He made all preparations to go to her bedside, and was about to purchase a railroad ticket this morning when a telegram came announcing her death. She had been ill but a short time, and until a week ago was walking about her room. Mrs. Lee was 65 years of age.

Doctor Lee abandoned his western trip, and will attend the funeral at Crestline next Thursday. Interment will be in the family burying ground at that place. The reverend gentleman was deeply attached to his mother, and has the sympathy of very many friends in his bereavement.

WAITING FOR BIDS.

Clerk Hanley Has Received No Proposals For Bonds.

Clerk Hanley sat in his office today, and waited patiently for some bidder to send word that he wanted the bonds East Liverpool has for sale. He waited all day, but no bidders came. That is no reason, however, to think there will not be a number of proposals in the hands of the clerk tomorrow. The bonds amount to $22,448, and the money is to pay for street and sewer improvements in the city.

A COMPROMISE.

George Zink Was Not Long Delayed at Ironclad.

George Zink, who was arrested Saturday afternoon by Marshal Hanlin, of Ironclad, and taken before Squire Householder, of Hammondsville, was only detained a few hours. The young man succeeded in effecting a compromise, and the case against him will likely be dropped.

A GOOD LIST

Will the Naval Reserve Have Next Wednesday.

Thirty people have signified their intention of joining the naval reserve at the meeting Wednesday evening, to be held in the armory. If the formation of the company is successful, a joint agreement will be made with Captain Hill to use the rink 52 nights in the year for drilling.

THE CROWD DISPERSED

Before the Patrol and the Officers Arrived.

A police call from the lower part of the city was sent in to the fire station Saturday evening, and Officer McMillan was at once dispatched to the scene. A small disturbance was in progress for a time, but those who caused it disappeared before the officer arrived.

James Claims Persecution.

Jim Sharp says he is the victim of a great deal of persecution. He claims his relatives are conspiring to deprive him of a home, and have cast odium on his name to such an extent that it is only with difficulty he can procure work.

Too Much Work.

Two young men, who have been keeping bachelor hall on East Market street, during the absence of the lady of the house this morning became disgusted with this mode of living, and sought a boarding house. Their friends are poking fun at them.

A Good Company.

J. E. Murry, representing the "Fast Mail," was in the city today arranging for the appearance of his company in this city the evening of Nov. 23. The company will be readily remembered by those who heard the play two years ago.

Progress This Week.

Workmen began Saturday evening to place in position the beams upon which the floor of the bridge will rest, and if all the weather of the week is as it is today, the work will be finished next Saturday.

Better Days.

There is a quiet aspect around city hall today, and the mayor's docket bore evidence that no arrests were made Saturday night. His honor was heard sadly singing, "We Have Seen Better Days."

MR. PURINTON'S VIEW

A Word From the President of Council.

NOT SO MUCH ANOTHER TERM

As His Desire to Protect Property Owners Is This Street Railway Ordinance—He Has No Desire to Be a Model For a Local Paper.

When President Purinton was asked this morning what he had to say in reply to the vicious attack of a local paper last Saturday afternoon, he gave out the following signed statement.

"I have nothing to say, except that the publication of the ordinance in question was held back by me personally for a purpose, as both Mr. Hanley and Mr. Betz will testify to. If council is asking too much, we want to know it from citizens and taxpayers not directly interested in the enterprise, and they may rest assured their interests will be fully protected. I assure the people their will is supreme. As to the Crisis' attack on me, I only ask the people to consider the source. I have never been its ideal, never expect to be, and would not if I could. My actions in this, as well as others, have not and will not be for the purpose of being returned to council or any other position of trust. As long as I make my mistakes in favor of the people as a whole, I will be satisfied.

"JOHN J. PURINTON."

COUNCIL MUST PROTECT

The City and Its People Against Encroachments.

Col. W. C. Watson, whose councilmanic experience covered some troublesome times, said today:

"If our citizens will take the trouble to read over the revised ordinances, or the combination of laws passed by council after days of conference and labor, and then inspect the tracks of the East Liverpool and Wellsville railway, they will see how difficult it is to formulate and enact an ordinance satisfactory to such corporations, and at the same time save the people from damage. I may say that either the ordinances passed governing said road are defective or the enforcement neglected. It seems both.

"No doubt the troubles of the past were in the minds of our council when the measure to govern the new road came before that body, and they no doubt had an honest desire to save the city whole against damage to streets, etc.

"However, I think it excessive to charge one per cent on their earnings in any shape.

"They should be governed by a just and equitable law that will save the city from expense or damage, and I fully believe that council will, when the matter is put before them in the correct light, so amend the law just passed as to be satisfactory to all interested."

Forcefully Ejected

Special Officer John Powell ejected a drunken man from the Grand, Saturday evening. The individual was of the opinion he was a better performer than the parties on the stage, and announced the fact in a loud voice on several occasions, until it became necessary to put him out, where his talent could have full sway without annoying any person.

Made One Woman Happy.

Mrs. Mary L. Young, widow of the late Robert Young, received word this morning, through Justice Rose, that she had been granted a pension of $12 per month. Her husband served in the late war as a member of the Seventh Illinois cavalry.

A Likely Story.

Some Wellsville individual writes a Pittsburg paper that the Republicans naturalized a lot of Italians, but when they voted they put their marks under the rooster, not having sense enough to know the difference between an eagle and a rooster.

No Thanksgiving Rates.

It is announced that the railroads will give no special rates for Thanksgiving. Heretofore low fare for the round trip was allowed, but it did not produce the desired patronage, and the Pennsylvania company will not have it this year.

Died This Morning.

An infant child of Howard Mercer Eighth street, died at an early hour this morning. The funeral took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment was made at Spring Grove.

They Still Play.

The small boys continue to play football on the streets despite the efforts of the police to stop them. An accident will yet occur if the practice continues.

INSULTING THE FLAG.

The late campaign is far enough in the distance to allow an unbiased view of some things which the heat of political argument would not permit a few weeks ago. Chief among these can be found the repeated insult to the flag, an expressed contempt for the emblem of the nation. There are no laws in this country which provide for the punishment of those partisans who, regardless of any influence, will tear down and trample upon what millions of Americans hold very dear. Nowhere on the statute books can be found adequate punishment for a crime so heinous. The principle involved is not merely the act of destroying or disfiguring a bit of bunting, but makes up an insult to all the people of the country.
It takes respect from an institution sacred as the love of country, and allows the spread of a sentiment in which lies the greatest danger of the land.
The people are the nation, and when they lose respect for the nation they border upon a condition betokening dissolution. The number of insults offered the flag these last few months has aroused a sentiment which, it is hoped, will result in legislation adequate to protect and keep inviolate the beautiful emblem of liberty. If the stamping on the flag is made by law what it is in reality, treason, there will not be so much of it.

CANINE FRIEND IN NEED.

How the Greyhound Rescued the Little Spaniel.

"Talk about the sagacity of dogs," remarked Jenkins as he scornfully surveyed the records of the good deeds done by canines in general. "Why, I saw something one day which beats the world—something which, in addition to proving the reasoning power of dogs, showed also that some of them at least possess a great capacity for affection for their own kind. A friend of mine up town owns several dogs, among the lot being a magnificent greyhound and a diminutive spaniel, the two dogs, notwithstanding the disparity in size, being warm friends. One summer day the dog catcher wagon was making the rounds and, as usual, was missing the curs while corralling the animals which were taken care of. It happened that my friend's front gate had been left open, and the two dogs mentioned escaped into the street just as the wagon turned the corner. There was a great cry on the part of the catchers, who grasped their nets and made a scramble for the little spaniel, not seeming to like the idea of tackling the big hound. The poor little spaniel realized her danger and attempted to escape. She flew like one possessed in every direction, only to be headed off by the men with the nets and a score of small boys. She finally halted, panting, in the middle of the street, and one of the men approached her with his net. It seemed that the little thing's doom was sealed.
"Suddenly there was a fierce bark,
and the big greyhound came leaping into the crowd, scattering the small boys and compelling the catchers to take to the wagon. The hound reached the side of the spaniel and, taking in the situation, reached down, grasped his wee companion in his capacious mouth and was off down the street like a shot. He didn't stop for the gate, but with a great, graceful leap, over the fence,
and then, gently depositing the spaniel
on the ground, stood wagging his tail,
as if knowing that he had discomfited
their enemies, while the spaniel gamboled and made the welkin ring with her shrill bark. 'If that wasn't a great thing, I don't know.'—New Orleans

Bankers Ordered to Pay Under Guise of a Loan.

$60,000,000 IS THE DEMAND.

The Money Is to Be Used In the Desperate Attempt to Crush the Cuban Rebellion—Spaniards Fear McKinley,
Quick Death Ordered For Filibusters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Senator Du-puy de Lome, the Spanish minister here, has received news from Madrid to the effect that today the government made an announcement asking for public subscriptions on a loan of $60,000,000.
While the minister said that the loan was not to be made purposely for the immediate purchase of munitions and equipments for war, yet it was probable that the bulk of the money would be used to defray expenses of the conflict now going on in Cuba.

Minister de Lome has received a telegram from an official source saying that a private canvass has been made of bankers and brokers of Madrid with the intention of finding out how much they would subscribe, and that so far different financiers have promised to take up bonds amounting to over $60,000,000.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The Times' Madrid correspondent dwells upon the unusual means being adopted to insure the success of the new Spanish loan.

"Appeals amounting to commands," he says, "have been issued from the interior finance and marine ministry and to the provincial authorities to adopt exceptional measures to secure large subscriptions. The newspapers are filled with exhortations to patriotism from public men, headed by the minister of finance, Senor Juan Navarro Reverter. The loan is more like a national charitable subscription than an ordinary financial operation."

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—The Picay-

"There is no doubt that the election of McKinley is a source of much worry to the Spanish government, for it is generally conceded that the new president will do something toward recognizing the insurgent government's belligerency.

"General Weyler has issued instructions to all the captains of cruisers that whenever a filibustering expedition is caught that courtmartial is to be made on the spot and the execution to follow, in order to avoid international complications, such as the Competitor case.

mity of the captain general.

JAPAN IS ENCROACHING.

Our Shipping Interests Threatened on the Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The report of the commissioner of navigation for 1896, after referring to the necessity for the passage of a free ship bill, states that our maritime rank on the Pacific is now threatened by a new rival, Japan, which under liberal and progressive laws, has just established a transpacific steamship line to the United States, and with the co-operation of American capital, is preparing to extend rapidly
the service.

Before it is altogether lost, Commissioner Chamberlain suggests that congress inquire into the conditions of transpacific transportation.
The report recommends an immediate extension of the act of 1892 under which the steamships New York and Paris were admitted to American registry, and the steamships St. Louis and St. Paul were built in the United States.
Under existing law it is impossible to establish on the Pacific a mail service, even approximating our Atlantic mail service on equal conditions, with those found necessary to recent creation of the latter.

The report opposes at length the proposition to impose 10 per cent additional discriminating duties on all cargoes brought into the United States by foreign vessels. It points out that for over 80 years the United States have followed the policy of reciprocity in shipping. Every other maritime nation of considerable rank has adopted and now pursues the same policy.

KING MENELIK'S VICTORY.

A Treaty With Italy Which Makes His Country Free.

ROME, Nov. 16.—Under date of Alisubeba, Oct. 26, Major Verazzini, Italy's envoy plenipotentiary to the Negus Menelik of Abyssinia, has telegraphed to the Italian government as follows:

"I have with great solemnity signed a treaty of peace and a convention for the release of the prisoners in Menelik's hands. The treaty provides for the appointment of delegates by Italy and Abyssinia a year hence to determine the frontiers by friendly agreement. It recognizes the absolute independence of Ethiopia and abrogates the Ucciali treaty. Italy undertakes in the meantime not to cede the territory to any other power. Should she desire spontaneously to abandon the territory it would return to the Ethiopian ruler.

"The convention, after detailing the arrangement for the release of the prisoners, provides that Italy shall indemnify Abyssinia by a sum which the KING MENELIK.

Negus leaves to Italy's sense of equity for the expenses incurred in the maintenance of Italian prisoners."

By the Ucciali treaty, concluded in 1889 between Menelik and Italy, Abyssinia became an Italian protectorate.
The settlement announced above by Major Verazzini is the outcome of Italian reverses at the hands of the Abyssinians under the brave King Menelik during the late war.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

The Monthly Comparative Statement
Issued by the Bureau of Statistics.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The monthly comparative statement of the principal articles of domestic exports issued by the bureau of statistics shows the exports of breadstuffs during October 1896 to have amounted to $19,864,896.
Same month last year $12,297,011, for the ten months ended Oct. 31 the amount was $135,288,984 as compared with $97,622,351 for the same period in 1895. The cotton exports during October last aggregated $37,245,408 as compared with $27,808,447 during October 1895. The amount of mineral oils exported during October last was $6,094,163; same month in 1895 $5,890,514; for the last ten months the amount was $52,325,276, as against $44,972,499 for the same months in 1895.

The exports of provisions during last October amounted to $14,359,230, as compared with $13,147,632 for October, 1895. For the ten months the aggregate was $133,351,713, as compared with $125,598,555 for the same period last year.

A statement of the imports and exports of merchandise, gold and silver shows as follows: Exports of domestic merchandise during October, 1896, $111,904,765; for the same month last year $85,089,206; for the ten months of 1896 the amount was $762,868,113, as against $691,113,565 for the same period in 1895. The imports of domestic merchandise during October, 1896, amounted to $50,373,675, of which $24,929,382 was free of duty. The total imports for the same month last year was $75,080,344, a loss of nearly 33 per cent. For the ten months the total imports amounted to $572,461,905, as compared with $676,143,483 for the same period last year. The gold exports for October amounted to $843,168, as compared with $1,379,897 for October, 1895. The imports amounted to $27,961,988, as against $1,797,040 for October, 1895.

The exports of silver during October amounted to $4,794,339. For October, 1895, the amount was $4,594,447.
The imports of silver during last October aggregated $888,422; for October, 1895, it was $1,391,881.

GREAT FALLS BRIDLED.

Niagara River Made to Flow

MILLS HITCHED TO THE CATARACT.

The Street Cars of Buffalo Moving Today by Power From the Great Scenic Wonder—A Magnificent Engineering
Project So Far Proves a Success

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 16.—At midnight the turning of a switch in the big powerhouse at Niagara Falls completed a circuit which caused Niagara river to flow uphill, so to speak, by returning a fraction of its resistless energy, which had already swept past the gates of Buffalo, back into that city, 27 miles distant. The harness was buckled that hitches the factory wheels of Buffalo to the greatest cataract on earth.
Today the street cars of this city are moving by falls power. Hereafter the falls must work enough to earn their living.

The bucking of the harness could have been done as well 12 hours earlier, but owing to the fact that the father of William B. Rankin of New York, secretary of the Niagara Falls Power company, is a clergyman, in deference to his wishes the Niagara Falls power was not turned into the transmitting system
at noon Sunday, as had been expected.
The connections were made at midnight. The force of experts having the work in charge were busy all of Saturday night and until late Sunday evening testing the various connections and going over the machinery to make sure that everything was in proper order.
When everything was in readiness for the switch to be thrown over the electricians were confident that there need be no cessation of the current set flowing over the wires of the Buffalo street railway system.

The distance covered by the line between Buffalo and the falls is 27 miles, and the expert electricians who have the work in charge estimate that the loss of energy will be less than 10 per cent, and may not much exceed 5.
Careful tests are to be made in this connection, the tests covering both night and day, and clear as well as rainy weather. The electricians are paying particular attention to this test, as on the perfect insulation of the carrying line depends much of the future success of the undertaking.

The line that has been built to carry the current-bearing wires is of a most substantial nature. Unlike the ordinary telegraph line the poles are placed very close together and are braced in such a manner as to be proof against heavy storms. At curves the poles are set double and are guyed to numerous smaller poles to prevent sagging. The overhead line extends from the powerhouse at the falls to the city limits of Buffalo, where the wires enter cement conduits. On the overhead line glass in-sulators were found unequal to the strain, and porcelain insulators made specialty to hold the wires. These in-sulators were subjected to a current of 50,000 volts before being put in use.
There are at present on the poles night cables each with a carrying capacity of 5,000 horsepower, or 40,000 horsepower in all. The poles are of such a substantial character, however, that this number of cables can be doubled without subjecting them to a greater strain than is considered safe.

The only contract made so far for the delivery of power in Buffalo by the power company is that with the Buffalo street railway company for 1,000 horsepower. Under the contract with the city the completion of the undertaking of delivering power in Buffalo was not obligatory before next June. It was in order to secure the contract with the street railway company that the work was hurried through so far ahead of time.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 16.— James B. Spurr, a young printer, has shot and probably fatally wounded Miss Nina Cornell and slightly wounded
James E. Wilson, her escort, and then rent a bullet through his own heart.
Jealousy was the cause.

CANINE FRIEND IN NEED.

How the Greyhound Rescued the Little Spaniel.

"Talk about the sagacity of dogs," remarked Jenkins as he scornfully surveyed the records of the good deeds done by canines in general. "Why, I saw something one day which beats the world—something which, in addition to proving the reasoning power of dogs, showed also that some of them at least possess a great capacity for affection for their own kind. A friend of mine up town owns several dogs, among the lot being a magnificent greyhound and a diminutive spaniel, the two dogs, notwithstanding the disparity in size, being warm friends. One summer day the dog catcher wagon was making the rounds and, as usual, was missing the curs while corraling the animals which are well taken care of. It happened that my friend's front gate had been left open, and the two dogs mentioned escaped into the street just as the wagon turned the corner. There was a great cry on the part of the catchers, who grasped their nets and made a scramble for the little spaniel, not seeming to like the idea of tackling the big hound. The poor little spaniel realized her danger and attempted to escape. She flew like one possessed in every direction, only to be headed off by the men with the nets and a score of small boys. She finally halted, panting in the middle of the street, and one of the men approached her with his net. It seemed that the little thing's doom was sealed.

"Suddenly there was a fierce bark, and the big greyhound came leaping into the crowd, scattering the small boys and compelling the catchers to take to the wagon. The hound reached the side of the spaniel and, taking in the situation, reached down, grasped his wee companion in his capacious mouth and was off down the street like a shot. He didn't stop for the gate, but with a great, graceful leap, was over the fence, and then, gently depositing the spaniel on the ground, stood wagging his tail, as if knowing that he had discomfited their enemies, while the spaniel gambled and made the welkin ring with her shrill barks. 'If that wasn't a great thing, I don't know.'—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Bankers Ordered to Pay Under Guise of a Loan.

$60,000,000 IS THE DEMAND.

The Money Is to Be Used in the Desperate Attempt to Crush the Cuban Rebellion—Spaniards Fear McKinley. Quick Death Ordered For Filibusters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Senator Du-puy de Lome, the Spanish minister here, has received news from Madrid to the effect that today the government made an announcement asking for public subscriptions on a loan of $50,000,000. While the minister said that the loan was not to be made purposely for the immediate purchase of munitions and equipments for war, yet it was probable that the bulk of the money would be used to defray expenses of the conflict now going on in Cuba. Minister de Lome has received a telegram from an official source saying that a private canvass has been made of bankers and brokers of Madrid with the intention of finding out how much they would subscribe, and that so far different financiers have promised to take up bonds amounting to over $50,000,000.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The Times' Madrid correspondent dwells upon the unusual means being adopted to insure the success of the new Spanish loan. "Appeals amounting to commands," he says, "have been issued from the interior finance and marine ministry and to the provincial authorities to adopt exceptional measures to secure large subscriptions. The newspapers are filled with exhortations to patriotism from public men, headed by the minister of finance, Senor Juan Navarro Reverter. The loan is more like a national charitable subscription than an ordinary financial operation."

SPANIARDS FEAR MCKINLEY.

Weyler Orders Summary Executions of Captured Filibusters.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—The Picayune's Havana correspondent sends the following: "There is no doubt that the election of McKinley is a source of much worry to the Spanish government, for it is generally conceded that the new president will do something toward recognizing the insurgent government's belligerency."

"General Weyler has issued instructions to all the captains of cruisers that whenever a filibustering expedition is caught that courtmartial is to be made on the spot and the execution to follow, in order to avoid international complications, such as the Competitor case."

"In the trial of political prisoners here there is no such a thing as justice, for the judges have to give a verdict against the prisoners or incur the enmity of the captain general."

"Of battles there have been many, in which much blood has been shed, and they have been suppressed by the press censor."

JAPAN IS ENCROACHING.

Our Shipping Interests Threatened on the Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The report of the commissioner of navigation for 1896, after referring to the necessity for the passage of a free ship bill, states that our maritime rank on the Pacific is now threatened by a new rival, Japan, which under liberal and progressive laws, has just established a transpacific steamship line to the United States, and with the co-operation of American capital, is preparing to extend rapidly the service.

Before it is altogether lost, Commissioner Chamberlain suggests that congress inquire into the conditions of transpacific transportation. The report recommends an immediate extension of the act of 1892 under which the steamships New York and Paris were admitted to American registry, and the steamships St. Louis and St. Paul were built in the United States. Under existing law it is impossible to establish on the Pacific a mail service, even approximating our Atlantic mail service on equal conditions with those found necessary to recent creation of the latter.

The report opposes at length the proposition to impose 10 per cent additional discriminating duties on all cargoes brought into the United States by foreign vessels. It points out that for over 80 years the United States have followed the policy of reciprocity in shipping. Every other maritime nation of considerable rank has adopted and now pursues the same policy.

KING MENELIK'S VICTORY.

A Treaty With Italy Which Makes Him Country Free.

ROME, Nov. 16.—Under date of Addis Abeba, Oct. 26, Major Verazzini, Italy's envoy plenipotentiary to the Negus Menelik of Abyssinia, has telegraphed to the Italian government as follows: "I have with great solemnity signed a treaty of peace and a convention for the release of the prisoners in Menelik's hands. The treaty provides for the restoration of the status quo pending the decision of delegates by Italy and Abyssinia a year hence to determine the frontiers by friendly agreement. It recognizes the absolute independence of Ethiopia and abrogates the Ucciali treaty. Italy undertakes in the meantime not to cede the territory to any other power. Should she desire spontaneously to abandon the territory it would return to the Ethiopian ruler."

"The convention, after detailing the arrangement for the release of the prisoners, provides that Italy shall indemnify Abyssinia by a sum which the negotiations are now settling. The distance covered by the line between Buffalo and the falls is 27 miles, and the expert electricians who have the work in charge estimate that the loss of energy will be less than 10 per cent, and may not much exceed 5. Careful tests are to be made in this connection, the tests covering both night and day, and clear as well as rainy weather. The electricians are paying particular attention to this test, as on the perfect insulation of the carrying line depends much of the future success of the undertaking.

The line that has been built to carry the current-bearing wires is of a most substantial nature. Unlike the ordinary telegraph line the poles are placed very close together and are braced in such a manner as to be proof against heavy storms. At curves the poles are set double and are guyed to numerous smaller poles to prevent sagging. The overhead line extends from the powerhouse at the falls to the city limits of Buffalo, where the wires enter cement conduits. On the overhead line glass insulators were found unequal to the strain, and porcelain insulators made specially to hold the wires. These insulators were subjected to a current of 50,000 volts before being put in use. There are at present on the poles night cables each with a carrying capacity of 5,000 horsepower, or 40,000 horsepower in all. The poles are of such a substantial character, however, that this number of cables can be doubled without subjecting them to a greater strain than is considered safe.

The only contract made so far for the delivery of power in Buffalo by the power company is that with the Buffalo street railway company for 1,000 horse power. Under the contract with the company the completion of the undertaking of delivering power in Buffalo was not obligatory before next June. It was in order to secure the contract with the street railway company that the work was hurried through so far ahead of time.

MILLS HITCHED TO THE CATARACT.

The Street Cars of Buffalo Moving Today by Power From the Great Scenic Wonder—A Magnificent Engineering Project So Far From a Success.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 16.—At midnight the turning of a switch in the big powerhouse at Niagara Falls completed a circuit which caused Niagara river to flow uphill, so to speak, by returning a fraction of its resistless energy, which had already swept past the gates of Buffalo, back into that city, 27 miles distant. The harness was buckled that hitches the factory wheels of Buffalo to the greatest cataract on earth. Today the street cars of this city are moving by falls power. Hereafter the falls must work enough to earn their living.

The bucking of the harness could have been done as well 12 hours earlier, but owing to the fact that the father of William B. Rankin of New York, secretary of the Niagara Falls Power company, is a clergyman, in deference to his wishes the Niagara Falls power was not turned into the transmitting system at noon Sunday, as had been expected. The connections were made at midnight. The force of experts having the work in charge were busy all of Saturday night and until late Sunday evening testing the various connections and going over the machinery to make sure that everything was in proper order. When everything was in readiness for the switch to be thrown over the electricians were confident that there need be no cessation of the current set flowing over the wires of the Buffalo street railway system.

The distance covered by the line between Buffalo and the falls is 27 miles, and the expert electricians who have the work in charge estimate that the loss of energy will be less than 10 per cent, and may not much exceed 5. Careful tests are to be made in this connection, the tests covering both night and day, and clear as well as rainy weather. CHANGES IN THE HOUSE

Many New Faces Will Be Seen
Next Session.

COMMITTEES TO BE REMODELED.

Some of the Vacancies Are Important.
A Contest Likely Over the Late Ex-
Speaker Crisp's Place on the Committee on Rules—Those Missing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Although the next house of representatives will be largely Republican considerable remodeling of committees on account of the new faces which will come into the house will take place. Many Republicans were not re-nominated, and some were not re-elected after having received nominations.

Some of the vacancies are on important committees. That on the committee on rules caused by the death of Judge Crisp will have to be filled at once. It has been intimated that Henry G. Turner of Georgia would be selected for the remaining short session, although another person would have to be chosen in the next congress, as Turner was not re-elected. Some of the silver Democrats may object to this, as Turner is a gold man. It is said that Bailey of Texas may be the choice, but if Turner is appointed it will give the Democrats an opportunity to designate the leader of the minority in the next house by the nomination of a candidate for speaker.

There is no change in the Republican membership of the ways and means committee, all being returned. On the Democratic side are three vacancies, Crisp and Turner of Georgia and Cobb of Missouri.

On the appropriation committee, the Republicans lose four members, Arnold of Rhode Island, Hanger of Nebraska, Blue of Kansas and McCall of Tennessee; and the Democrats, Layton of Ohio, and Bartlett of New York.

Only one man of each party on the accounts committee is left; the Republicans lose Aldrich of Illinois, McCall of Tennessee, Tracey of Missouri and Long of Kansas, and the Democrats, Rusk of Maryland, Price of Louisiana and Cobb of Missouri.

Other committees of importance show the following members not returned whose places will have to be filled in the rearrangement of committees in the next house:

Agriculture—Republicans, Stahle, Pennsylvania; Willis, Delaware; Leighty, Indiana; Murphy, Illinois; Flynn, Oklahoma. Democrats, Moses, Georgia; Turner, Virginia. Populists, Kent, Nebraska; Shuford, North Carolina.

Banking and currency—Republicans, Lefevre, New York; Calderhead, Kansas. Democrats, Cobb, Missouri; Cobb, Alabama; Black, Georgia; Hendricks, Kentucky.

Coinage, weights and measures—Republicans, Hunter, Kentucky; Hadley, Illinois; McClure, Ohio; Fairchild, New York; Murphy, Arizona. Democrats, Spencer, Mississippi; Clarke, Alabama.

District of Columbia—Republicans, Hulick, Ohio; Huling, West Virginia; Milnes, Michigan; Wellington, Maryland. Democrats, Bask, Maryland; Cobb, Missouri; Cobb, Alabama; Meredith, Virginia; Abbott, Texas.

Foreign affairs—Republicans, Draper, Massachusetts; Taft, Ohio. Democrats, McCrea, Kentucky; Price, Louisiana; Tucker, Virginia; Money, Mississippi. Interstate and foreign commerce—Republicans, Doolittle, Washington; Settle, North Carolina; Aldrich, Illinois; Neenan, Texas. Democrats, Price, Louisiana; Patterson, Tennessee; Bartlett, New York; Rusk, Maryland; Elliot, Virginia.

Invalid pensions—Republicans, Pickler, South Dakota; Thomas, Michigan; Wood, Illinois; Kirkpatrick, Kansas; Anderson, Tennessee; Andrews, Nebraska; Crowther, Missouri. BRYAN MADE SPEECHES.

He Opened the Campaign of 1900 at His Home.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 16.—William Jennings Bryan delivered two speeches in Lincoln Saturday afternoon and evening, which he had previously announced as the opening guns of the political campaign of 1900. Mr. Bryan, in the afternoon, talked to an audience at the Funks theater, composed of 1,350 members of the Mary Bryan club (ladies).

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan were escorted to the place of honor upon the stage. President Mrs. William Morning of the Mary Bryan club introduced Mr. Bryan.

The pronunciation of the ex-candidate's name was the signal for continued applause from a forest of gloved hands.

Mr. Bryan smilingly acknowledged the ovation, and when quiet was restored said in part:

"Even my enemies have conceded my physical endurance, and yet I want to say that my efforts were meager compared with those of the people—the common people of this country. If experience teaches us that our opponents are right we shall be able to enjoy and acquiesce in their victory and its fruits; if, on the contrary, they fail and we are left to prove them in the wrong, we shall at last convince them that our principle was the right one and shall ask them to join us honestly."

The closing sentences of Mr. Bryan's speech were well heard inaudible, his voice failing him utterly at times. In this connection he said laughingly, that he was glad that it had not given out during the campaign.

Mr. Bryan at night delivered a brief address to the Traveling Men's Bryan club, the Veterans and Bryan Home Guard at the Funks Opera house and later spoke a few minutes at an overflow meeting at Bohannan's hall. His voice had practically failed him at the afternoon meeting, and he had not sufficiently regained the use of his vocal chords to speak long. He was accorded a warm welcome, and spoke very briefly and in general terms of the necessity of carrying on the work of free silver education and of maintaining their various organizations.

WEBB HAYES IN CANTON.

He Was a Guest at the McKinley Home on Sunday.

CANTON, O., Nov. 16.—With an ideal autumnal day as an inspiration for a drive President-elect McKinley Sunday afternoon enjoyed a ride in the family carriage accompanied by Webb T. Hayes, who was a guest at the McKinley home. Mr. Hayes accompanied Major McKinley to the First M. E. church in the morning, the son of the Ohio president and the president-elect walking to and from the place of worship. Major McKinley sat in the pew with his aged mother and his sister, whom he saw to their carriages after the services.

In addition to receiving other callers and entertaining Mr. Hayes, who is a friend of the family of many years standing, Major McKinley did not forget to call at his mother's home, and he also spent as much time as he could with his wife, whose health has improved considerably during the last few days.

ASSASSIN USED DYNAMITE.

Two Men Frightfully Hurt and a Girl Injured in Detroit.

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—Two men were frightfully and perhaps fatally injured, and one young woman was slightly injured by the explosion of a dynamite cartridge under a house on Michigan avenue, west of the city limits. The explosion is believed to have been caused by an assassin.

Robert Ewers, an Englishman, badly injured about the face, eyes and skull; may die.

Hank Conjo, a Pole, limbs badly lacerated and bad gash in body over left kidney; recovery doubtful.

Josephine Conjo, Hank's daughter, cut over the eye. One of Conjo's sons, charges that the deed was committed by a man named C. Drykovski. He is not yet arrested.

C. Drykovski, the Pole who is accused of having exploded the cartridge, was found by officers in bed at his home with his clothes on. Since his arrest he has told various conflicting stories. The only motive known for such a crime by the prisoner is the fact that Ewers, one of the injured men, had cuffed him during a mass fracas on election night. Both the injured men are doing fairly well and both may recover.

Perished in a Fire.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 16.—Henry Weyler, aged 3 years, and Mary Weyler, aged 6 months, have been burned to death in a fire at the home of Christian Weyler, their father.

CASH BALANCE OVER $500,000.

Three Departments Turn In Fees to the State Treasury.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 16.—State Insurance Commissioner Matthews has turned over to the state treasury the sum of $1,991.80, representing fees collected in his department during the last quarter of the fiscal year, which ends Saturday. The whole amount collected for the year by this department is $109,000.

State Auditor W. D. Guilbert turned into the state treasury the sum of $23,150.82, representing the excise taxes collected by him so far.

Chief Clerk Kinney of the office of the secretary of state turned in the sum of $11,708.69, representing fees collected during the last quarter of the fiscal year, which ends Saturday. The secretary of state has received from the county boards of elections the sum of $1,000, which is the commission fees of the county officers elected at the recent election. The county boards collect these fees and send them to the secretary of state along with the certificates of election.

The annual settlement sheet shows cash balances in excess of $500,000.

May Be Bought by the Standard.

LIMA, O., Nov. 16.—The leading officials of the Standard Oil company have been here on a tour of inspection. They will go through the Indiana field and inspect the Cuddey pipeline with a view to purchasing it. It is said the Standard will soon expend $1,500,000 in improvements on its refineries.

Brice to Have Chicago Offices.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16.—Senator Brice has not only contracted with the Wabash railway for an entry into Chicago from the Cincinnati, Jackson and Mackinaw and the Ohio Southern railways, but he has also arranged for the general offices of his new system to be located in Chicago.

Urged For the Cabinet.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16.—Charles B. Murray, editor of The Price Current and superintendent of the Cincinnati chamber of commerce, is being prominently presented for secretary of agriculture.

HAPPENED IN THIS STATE.

Mrs. Joseph Culp dropped dead just after rising from her bed at Bellefontaine.

Chester Shafer, 9 years old, whose home is in Uhrichsville, was run down and fatally hurt by street car.

Diphtheria in a fatal form is very prevalent in Adams county. A great number of deaths have occurred in the past few weeks.

Clyde Patterson, a carpenter of Bethesda, in trying to catch a freight at Barnesville, was thrown under the train. His leg was cut off and had to be amputated at the knee.

Harry Sullivan, who was arrested in Jackson several weeks ago on the charge of bigamy and got out of the trouble, was rearrested in Jackson charged with jumping his board bill at Sciotoville.

The Ohio State Grange will meet in Bellefontaine on Dec. 8-11. Judge William Lawrence, president of the National Woolgrowers' association of this city will welcome them on the part of the city.

At a meeting of the Dayton police directors, nine patrolmen were on the carpet for drinking intoxicants while on duty. Every man of them pleaded guilty and was fined $20 each, with a warning that a repetition meant dismissal.

A peculiar organization, known as the Good Roads club, is in existence at Middletown and to its existence is due much of the credit for recent road improvements in and about the city. The club was formed about a year ago, for the purpose of securing legislation, local and general, favorable to road improvements.

As a result of the recent explosion of natural gas at a Main street restaurant, a $5,000 damage suit was filed in the common pleas court at Dayton. Samuel C. Brush, the plaintiff in the case, is the driver of a coal cart and was delivering coal at the place when the explosion occurred, sending him out of the cellar and upon the sidewalk like a rocket. The Natural Gas company is made a party defendant.

Oates Likely to Be a Senator.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 16.—The prevailing impression in this city is that Governor William C. Oates will be elected United States senator to succeed Senator Pugh, whose term expires March 4 next.

A Physician Shoots Himself.

HUDSON, N. Y., Nov. 16.—Dr. W. H. Stickles, a physician of Philmont, has shot himself and is not expected to live more than a few hours. He was in the house with his wife at the time.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Several hundred curious ones visited the new bridge yesterday.

The paving at the German Lutheran church was completed Saturday.

Will Morris may leave next month to take up a position at Plymouth, Ind.

Thomas Mumford is again able to be out after a severe illness from pneumonia.

Charles Hayes left this morning for East Palestine where he has secured a position.

The board of improvements and light committee will meet in joint session this evening.

Frank McGinnis of the clerical force at the freight depot, is confined to his home by illness.

The Ben Hur passed down at noon today, and the Keystone is due here this evening for Cincinnati.

The condition of Miss Rose Todd shows a decided improvement today, and it is now thought she will entirely recover.

The country roads are good for this season, and the number of wheelmen going from the city yesterday was much larger than usual.

A quantity of game was put off the boats from down the river yesterday. The number of passengers landing here was unusually large.

Passenger traffic on the morning trains was unusually good, the west bound train being crowded when it passed through this city.

C. S. Harte shipped his household effects to Sharon, Pa., this morning, and Charles Hayes and family will move to East Palestine tomorrow.

A large number of moulds have been made in the city for the Sebring pottery in East Palestine, and will shortly be shipped to the new plant.

The additional story being built to the decorating shop of the Laughlin pottery is almost finished, and will be occupied by the employees within a week.

Rev. B. W. Anthony, a leading minister of Pittsburg, occupied the pulpit at the Methodist Protestant church yesterday, and delivered two excellent sermons.

Doctor Holmes, president of Beaver seminary, occupied the pulpit of the First M. E. church, yesterday, morning and evening, and preached two interesting sermons on education.

The long looked for returns on the bond issue from the Second precinct of the Fourth ward have at last turned up, and were delivered to Secretary Norris Saturday afternoon by Clerk Hanley.

A horse driven by Samuel Dickey was attacked with colic at Cannon's Mill Saturday, and upon reaching Seventh street dropped dead. It was hauled beyond the corporate limits and buried.

Attorney Stevenson went to Hookstown today to take possession of oil rigging on the William Allison farm, by virtue of a deed of trust to secure the payment a note held by Samuel J. Martin.

The East Liverpool Pottery company entered suit, Saturday afternoon, against B. B. Hancock, of Philadelphia, for $23.98, balance due on account. The case will be tried tomorrow morning by Squire Rose.

Coulson Turnbull, son of Sampson Turnbull, of this city, has arrived in India, where he will remain until next summer. He will write of his observations while in that clime for a well known magazine.

Squire Morley dismissed the case brought against David Boyd by John Miller for $10.80, claimed due as wages. Miller was unable to give security for the costs, therefore the squire decided not to permit the case to come to trial.

Truant Officer Beardmore says he will push the case against the Feustel ladies for being incorrigible. They will be brought before Mayor Gilbert, and from all appearances will be committed to the probate judge for sentence to the reform school.

Samuel Carter, an English resident of the city, was taken to the infirmary Saturday evening. He is well up in years and has been out of employment for a long time. Recently he has been suffering from poor health, and becoming interested in his case, the township trustees decided to send him to the infirmary.

A well known young lady entertained her friends the other evening with pumpkin pie, and it is said one young man present succeeded in getting away with no less than four before he was politely but firmly informed that there were others in the party who liked pumpkin pie.

The construction of the stone bridge and culvert on Boyce street, East End, will be commenced early this week. The Ravine street bridge will also be built in a short time and the present shaky structure torn down. The work is done in compliance with a resolution passed by council.

A few smart money changers have been robbing the people of Sistersville by coating silver coins with a thin layer of gold, and passing them off as the genuine yellow metal. Mayor Gilbert was notified to keep a sharp lookout for the stuff in this city, as some of it had been sent here for distribution. Several members of the gang are under arrest.

TOM WATSON'S LETTER.

Senator Butler Advised Him to Change the Tone of It.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—In view of the fact that the letter of Tom Watson accepting the vice presidential nomination of the Populist party has been published Senator Marion Butler made public his reply, written when Mr. Watson's letter was received, in which he took exception to its tone. In the course of his letter he said:

"You, in effect, advise Populists not to support the joint electoral tickets that have been arranged in a large number of states. Is it possible that you fully appreciate the effect of such advice? At least, upon reflection, you must know that if enough Populists should follow such advice, it would mean the defeat of Bryan and the election of McKinley."

"I beseech you to change at least that part of your letter which gives advice which, if followed, would surely help the common enemy."

"If you do not, then you, yourself, must assume the responsibility of giving such a document to the public at this time."

WILL HANNA ACCEPT?

He Says He Has Not Said He Would Not Take an Office.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—M. A. Hanna has been seen by a reporter who tried to get from him a statement regarding the gossip connecting his name with a cabinet position. Your name has been used in connection with the secretaryship of the treasury," said a reporter. "Will you make an authoritative statement with reference to it?"

"No, I will not discuss it at all," was the reply.

"But some of the newspapers have said that you had declared you would accept no office."

"I don't remember ever having said anything of the kind."

"But you were so quoted."

"Well, I can't help that," was the reply.

This evening Mr. Hanna will be banqueted by a number of his friends at the Union club. The affair is to be exclusive. Nothing has been made public about the program, and it is said that no one but the members of the club who are invited will be admitted.

The Holland Tea Table.

Elegance is reached in the Holland tea table, its standard richly carved in mahogany or antique oak and inlaid with medallions in delft. The top is a movable tray in the beautiful china mounted in brass with heavily chased handles of the metal at either end. A complete tea service of delft accompanies it, making it a drawing room appointment of great beauty and expense. The well informed hostess, although delighted in its possession, will not claim for its genuineness, knowing that the lovely blue china now such a craze is but a close imitation. Only one perfect service of real old Holland delft is owned in this country, and that descended from Dutch ancestors and is so valuable as to be without fixed price.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A BALL IN HIS ARM

Edward Marion Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

THE BULLET CAN'T BE FOUND

If It Annoys Him He Will Be Taken to a Pittsburgh Hospital, Where the New Process Will Be Used—It Was All an Accident.

The attending physicians may find it necessary to send Edward Marion to a Pittsburgh hospital where the X rays can find a bullet now concealed in his arm.

Marion is a presser at the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, and was yesterday afternoon cleaning an old revolver at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Washington Bucher, in McKinnon addition. The weapon had not been used for some time, and Marion forgot to remove the cartridges. Without warning the hammer dropped, and a bullet went crashing through his wrist. It entered the flesh and then changing its course, became imbedded in the fleshy part of his arm. A physician probed for the ball, but it could not be found. The bullet does not give the unfortunate young man much pain today, but if it should become annoying he will be taken to a Pittsburgh hospital, the X rays will locate the bullet, and it will be removed.

RESERVED SEATS.

Professor Harper Makes a Change For the Next Recital.

Professor Harper's free song recitals have achieved such great popularity that he has been urged by many, who were unable to get into the church at the last one, to reserve some of the seats, some expressing their willingness to pay 50 cents if they could be sure of a seat at the Thanksgiving recital. The professor objected to reserving any seats whatever, but finally agreed to reserve a hundred at 25 cents each for the accommodation of those who do not wish to take their chances with the crowd. These seats can be obtained at Anderson's drug store, in the Diamond. No seats, however, will be sold on the night of the recital, as all not sold before that time will be free.

PAY YOUR TAXES.

I will be at the Hotel Grand, East Liverpool, on Monday and Tuesday, November 16 and 17, for the purpose of receiving taxes. Those interested will make note.

JOLLY PATHFINDERS.

They Will Amuse at the Grand For a Week.

Rentfrow's Jolly Pathfinders come to the Grand Opera House tonight for a week, and theater goers are promised a season of enjoyment. The company is so well known here that there is little concern about the attendance. The play tonight is "Below Zero" one of the best and breeziest of the repertoire. It is a laugh producer from the moment the curtain rises until it goes down on the last act, and never fails to add materially to the popularity of the players.

A RUSH FOR PRIZES.

One Proof That Advertisements Are Closely Watched.

Last week, Erlanger, the clothier, offered prizes for the first three answers to a puzzle which appeared in the News Review. The result was astonishing, and 857 answers were returned. The first, a suit of boys' clothes, went to Bruno Albert, 151 Sophia street; William Edwards, West End, got the umbrella, and Harry W. Deidrick was third, and received a man's hat. The winners can have the prizes by calling at Erlanger's, Washington and Fifth streets.

HELD UP ON BROADWAY

Two Rough Looking Men Stopped Mrs. Shenkle.

THEY WANTED ALL HER MONEY

But She Was Frightened, and Ran Until Help Was In Sight—A Bold Attempt In the Heart of the City—The Highwaymen Are Not Known.

The business section of Broadway is a busy place for the operations of highwaymen, and it is not often that thieves so desperate as to attack parties on the square between Third and Fourth streets can be found.

Mrs. Charles Shenkle discovered near 10 o'clock Saturday night that she had some shopping to do, and starting from her home on Third street went to Broadway. When near Church alley she saw two men standing in the shadow. As she approached they walked into the street, and one of them said:

"Miss give me your pocketbook."

Mrs. Shenkle was too frightened to reply, and ran up the hill as fast as possible. The men pursued, but she reached Fourth street without being overtaken. There she saw a pedestrian approaching, and thinking he, too, could not be a thief, she felt safe. At almost the same moment he was espied by the highwaymen, and they disappeared down Broadway. Mrs. Shenkle was scared so she can give but a faint description of the thieves beyond the fact that they were rough looking men.

The Coming Gown.

If there's one thing more certain than another about the coming gown, it is that it will be trimmed. Not just skirt alone, nor yet just bodice alone, but both will be heavily, richly and elaborately burdened with every sort of trimming. Is it that fashion, deprived of her beloved big sleeves, must have some other outlet and finds it in frills and frillery? From present indications it seems likely that plain skirts—skirts, that is to say, unembellished by ruffles or bands or tucks or even a slight drapery—will soon have disappeared from mortal view. As for bodices, well, sleeves may be close reefered. But what of the multitudinous flounces and shirrings and gatherings and drapings? Surely nothing short of "in full sail" describes them.

Embroidery is the most imperative detail of the coming gown. Have your new fall frock embroidered in however insignificant a way, and you will have given it a stamp that may not, it is true, by right belong to it, but which will mean "from Paris." And most impressive of all, it will mean that your new fall frock will cost "a sight" more than it would unembroidered. The present tendency to trimming altogether, indeed, means that. People may talk about the costliness of simplicity and the price you have to pay for exquisite plainness, but as a matter of fact that sort of thing doesn't really "come near as high" as the velvets, silks, passementerie, embroidery and other delectable devices for wheeling pence out of pockets that the present season is so industriously planning.—New York Sun.

Mrs. Roberts Very Ill.

Mrs. Phoebe Roberts is very near death's door at the home of her mother, Mrs. George Smith, of West End. Heart trouble is the cause, and it is thought the end will come before tomorrow.

Very Low.

Miss Hattie Curry is in a critical condition, and it is feared she can live but a short time. The young lady is very low, and hopes for her recovery have been almost abandoned.

Will Go to the Old Country.

James Dunkerly and family left this morning for New York, and they will sail on the Majestic Wednesday for Olden, England, where they will make their future home.

Collecting Money.

A large amount of money for taxes was paid into the hands of Collectors Green and Moore who are in the city today. They will remain here until tomorrow.

Favorable Conditions.

There were no new cases of diphtheria reported today, and unless indications fail the city has seen the last of new cases. The condition of Doctor Saint is more favorable today.

A PECULIAR BUSINESS.

Breeding and Catching Leeches For the New York Market.

James Partit and his children earn all the money they make raising leeches, for the work of breeding the blood-suckers on the Partit farm on Toms river, near Lacy, N. J., is nothing compared with the labor of catching them. The wary leech will take hold of nothing but human flesh, so the members of the Partit family, big and little, plunge their legs into the swamp and draw them up presently with the prey attached.

Farmer Partit doesn't seem to think a little blood letting hurts one.

"They are as good as a dose of spring physic," says he. "Why, me and the boys get so fat and healthy doing nothing all winter that we need something like this to keep us in order. If we fished too long at a time, they might do some harm, but we know when to stop. After the season is over we feel fresher and better than if we hadn't been leeching. They are just like mosquitoes—they suck out all the bad blood and leave the good, and that's why, I suppose, we feel so good after a month's work in the swamp. I think we'd all have malaria down in this wet place if it wasn't for the leeches. No man could wade through such a mudhole without getting malaria unless something helped him."

His farm yields 500,000 leeches a year, and the price is 20 or 30 cents for 100, giving an annual income of $1,000 to the family. The market is New York or Philadelphia, where the leeches are distributed to the trade.

Half a century ago this would have been a great business, but the belief in leeches has fallen off in this country. Europe clings to the practice, and Paris consumes 3,000,000 leeches yearly, while London finds use for over 7,000,000 a year.

James Partit or his boys, when wading, discovered the presence of the leeches in his swamps. He looked up the subject and decided that he would supply the American market, which hitherto had depended on Europe. He found that buyers preferred the Hungarian fellow of olive green without spots, or else the German leech, with dark green body spotted below with black. He got a few specimens and put them in the pond. They multiplied rapidly after their enemies, the water snakes, were exterminated, and soon the first leech pond in the country was established. The young are ready for market in about a year, but reproduction takes three years. The average life of a leech is 15 or 20 years. Usually a healthy man can fish in the swamp four or five hours without losing enough blood to exhaust him. The leech has three jaws and from 20 to 90 teeth. When these get going, in a short time the leech will swallow five times his weight in blood.

All this is more pleasant than the practice elsewhere about New York of fattening leeches for the market on decrepit old horses which have been condemned to the boneyard.—New York Press.

GETTING PATENTS.

The Discoverers Are Not Usually the Ones to Reap the Reward.

If you look back on the history of human progress, you will find that none of the great epoch making inventions has ever been patented. The man who lit the first fire—whether Prometheus or the party from whom he stole the idea—did not get a patent for it. Neither did the man who made the first wheel, in every sense one of the most revolutionary inventions in the history of man. The same thing may be said of the invention of soap, candles, gun powder, umbrellas and the mariner's compass, or, to come down to our own day, of the steam engine and the electric telegraph.

Patents are mostly concerned with small mechanical details and improvements—it may be in the application of steam and electricity—and by means of these patents enormous profits have been secured to second rate inventors, but the great ideas and discoveries which underlie these details have been given to the world gratis.

There is a general notion that if you did not protect inventions by means of patents inventors would cease to invent and material progress would come to a standstill. But history does not bear this out in the least. Men with great mechanical gifts do not exercise them solely with a view to commercial profit any more than astronomers search the heavens for new worlds with an eye to registering patents and floating companies on the results of their discoveries.—London Truth.

Plaiting.

Very narrow plaiting is a favorite dress trimming. A costume of gray camel's hair is made up in a plain princess fashion. The waist closes at one side, and the skirt, waist and sleeves are, as one enthusiastic young woman expressed it, absolutely smothered in pinked out ruffles of iridescent taffeta. In addition to the plaiting these ruffles are plaited, then drawn out a little to make fans, which are laid so as to form bands of trimming from shoulders to waist line as outlines for yokes and to supply the place of the almost collapsed sleeves. One dress has an outlined yoke of very narrow pinked and plaited ruffling. From the seams where the sleeves are sewed in are similar ruffles of varying widths, the lower one being about 14 inches wide and the upper one not over 5 inches wide.—New York Ledger.

To change one's nationality in Russia is not at the command of every purse. The first condition is that you should be a landowner for five years at the shortest, and that during the whole of that period you should have resided upon your property in that country. The next condition is that you should take the oath of allegiance to the czar.

When an Englishman becomes a naturalized Norwegian, his wife and children also change their nationality.

FOOD FOR THE FIEND

NEW YORK'S "FIREPROOF" SKY-SCRAPERS INVITE A HOLOCAUST.

Once Well started a Conflagration Might Wipe Out the Best Part of the Business Section—Too Much Iron, Says Chief of Fire Department Bonner.

New York's business section—that part of the city that includes the newest of modern fireproof buildings—is in great danger of being wiped out by fire. Capitalists who furnish the money that pays for erecting these new buildings do not seem to realize this fact, although the veteran chief of the fire department reiterates this statement about once a year. Read what he says.

"That a big section of lower New York some day will be wiped out by fire is probable if existing conditions continue," Fire Chief Bonner said to a Press reporter.

These conditions are the height of the buildings, the material used in their construction, the narrowness of the streets and the inadequacy of the water supply.

It is a favorite argument that if worst came to worst, buildings ahead of a burning area could be blown up, as the farmer turns a dead furrow to check the prairie fire. This theory is not advanced any more by intelligent men, says the chief.

"We can fight a fire 125 feet high, or ten stories. Above that we are well nigh helpless. They say that the modern tall fireproof building needs not as much protection as the ordinary low structure. But the fireproof building is yet to be built. The communists couldn't destroy Paris in 1871 even by the use of barrels of petroleum. In American buildings are all the necessities of a big, hot fire, without the aid of a drop of petroleum. The large structures in foreign cities are built far more solidly than ours. Having fewer floors and less wood, European buildings get along with little inside trim of wood. Iron and steel in these days have taken the place in this country of masonry. Nothing withstands fire as well as a well constructed brick wall. Iron columns are covered with four inches of terra cotta or brick, which fire and water can tear off in a short time. Then the stripped iron is left to warp and twist and tumble. I believe the covering should be eight inches.

"With only one night watchman in a building, in danger, like all mortals, of sudden sickness or incapacity, and with no night elevator, a fire could get a good headway in the upper floors of a 20 or 30 story building. Bursting out of the windows and fanned by a strong wind, the flames could easily leap the narrow streets of lower New York and a fire of enormous extent and damage begin.

"I have always opposed putting a big building in City Hall park, believing that the time might come when that area, needful as a base of operations, would be the salvation of the city."

Most of the new skyscrapers have fire fighting appliances of their own or of less value. Tanks on the roof and in the cellar are supplied and kept full by various systems, but these are as much for the ordinary requirements of tenants as for possible use in fire. Some of the structures have standpipes inside or outside the wall. Legally there is no way of compelling the builders of what is called a "fireproof" building to put in more than the most ordinary fire appliances, even above the 125 foot line.

Building a 30 story structure is much like building a dwelling house in one respect—there's always deviations from the plans and improvements upon them. For every alteration from the drawings filed with the building department the permission of the board of examiners must be had. If the alterations are proper, consent is granted, but on condition that approved fire appliances be put in the building, particularly in the upper stories. These include a stipulation that at least one elevator shall be ready to run at any time in the night in order that the firemen can get up and down quickly; the putting of hose and fire buckets on each floor, and, usually, a standpipe, with couplings for each floor. When the builders consent to add these equipments and others deemed necessary, including a competent night watch service, permission is granted to make the alterations. This applies, of course, only to buildings under construction recently. Of those already up there is small hope unless the underwriters' offer of lower premiums appeal sufficiently to the pocketbook.

To the end that the fire resistance of building materials shall be known positively, fire tests have been made under the supervision of the superintendent of buildings. Three such public exhibitions already have been held, and they will be continued at intervals through the winter. When finished, Superintendent Constable will make a report to the board of examiners.

The cry for more water in the lower part of the city has been insistent for years. Many have been the plans for reservoirs at the Battery and on either side half a mile or a mile up stream. Every time an extra line of pipe has been laid with the object of furnishing the needed surplus it has been tapped up town. The fire and building departments hope that the two 48 inch mains being laid in Fifth avenue will be left for the relief of the section below Chambers street. Chief Bonner says the Forty-second street reservoir should not be disturbed until water is flowing undiverted through these mains to the locality that needs it most and for which it is intended.

That New York will be brought face to face with grave peril from the 30 storied structures unless precautions plentiful and timely are taken is not doubted by those who have studied the problem of maintaining safety with mountainous firebrands in narrow streets.—New York Press.

PICTURE ON A HILL.

The Long Man of Wilmington, England Measures 240 Feet.

About midway between Berwick and Polegate stations, at a point where the side of the hill is very precipitous, those who know exactly the spot where to look will be able to see from the railway carriage windows a sort of rude imitation of the human form outlined in white. The figure, which is between 200 and 300 feet in height, holds a long staff in each hand. This is "the Long Man of Wilmington," once the center of profound veneration and worship, but now merely an object of interest to the curious.

In order to obtain an adequate idea of this great hillside figure, dominating the surrounding country and appearing to watch as guardian over the little village below, it is desirable to approach it afoot, tramping along the winding lanes, as the pilgrims of old must have tramped when they came hither on the occasion of some great religious festival. Seen from afar, the figure does not appear to be of remarkable size, but gradually, as one approaches the hill, it assumes an imposing and definite shape.

The figure, about 240 feet in height, was merely shaped in the turf so as to allow the chair to appear through. In the course of time these depressions in the surface became almost imperceptible, and to such an extent was the figure neglected that at last it was only possible to make out the form at a distance when the slight hollows were marked by drifted snow or when the oblique rays of the rising or setting sun threw them into a deep shadow. In order to preserve the form of the Long Man, and to render it at the same time easily distinguishable at a distance the outline was marked by a single line of white bricks placed closely together. The effect has been to produce a somewhat startling figure, which is plainly visible in fine weather from a great distance.

There are in different parts of the country other examples of extremely rude and early hillside figures, and, although the very fact of their great antiquity renders it unlikely that historical or documentary evidence will be forthcoming as to their design or precise purpose, it is very satisfactory to find that an explanation has been found which will at once account for many of their peculiarities.

The theory is that these are sacrificial figures. We learn from the writings of Caesar that the Gauls (and the Britons were doubtless included) had figures of vast size, the limbs of which, formed of osiers, they filled with living men. The figure was ultimately fired, and the miserable victims perished in the flames.

There is a local saying in Sussex, probably of great antiquity, in which the Long Man is mentioned in reference to the weather. It runs:

When Firs-hill and Long Man has a cap,
We at A'ston gets a drap.

SURPRISING THE ORIENTALS.

A Sea of Pigtails Watched a Twist Drill Work.

An interesting account of a visit to a Chinese arsenal near Fuchau is given by a correspondent of Cassier's Magazine. He says:

"Taking out two drills, I sent them in and immediately was invited to enter. The official was polite, bowing and shaking his own hands, as is the custom among Chinamen, and offered me a cup of tea.

"There happened to be several forgings in the room, and as I pressed the drills against them and pointed to over the wall he seemed to comprehend what was wanted, and in a few minutes I was in a large, well lighted machine shop. I might say this extensive plant was built and equipped by French engineers some 15 years ago.

"The native foreman examined my tools with great interest and called in several assistants. All looked puzzled and did not seem to know what they were for. Walking to a drill press, I took out the flat drill, and, after considerable packing around the shank, succeeded in getting one of my taper shank twist drills to run fairly true in the spindle. There must have been 50 Chinamen working in the room, and every one had gathered around this press. The foreman ordered them off repeatedly, and then, looking at me, laughed good naturedly and gave it up.

"He brought a piece of cast iron, but I wanted something harder to drill, so I walked over to a large planer and took a long extension tool, made from 3 by 1½ inch tool steel, and clamped it up to the table of the drill press. He shook his head, intimating that the twist drill could not go through, and the crowd of workmen emitted grunts of approval.

"The press started, the lips of the twist drill turned out two spiral chips. The men elbowed me to one side. There was a sea of pigtailed bending down, watching the marvelous action of that little tool. As the chips grew in length the expressions of wonderment increased.

"It happened that the chips did not break until they were about 14 inches long. Then others started, and each time they broke off they were eagerly snatched by the men, some burning their fingers, and examined carefully from end to end.

"The dull edges of the drill were shown around and then ground and started again, and the fact that the drill would cut as well as the first time caused increased amazement and murmurs. I have made many tests with twist drills, but never before such an appreciative and demonstrative audience."

Malice.

"I guess I've found a way to take the conceit out of that amateur actress," remarked the girl who is not always good natured.

A BALL IN HIS ARM

Edward Marion Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

THE BULLET CAN'T BE FOUND

If It Annoys Him He Will Be Taken to a Pittsburgh Hospital, Where the New Process Will Be Used—It Was All an Accident.

The attending physicians may find it necessary to send Edward Marion to a Pittsburgh hospital where the X rays can find a bullet now concealed in his arm. Marion is a presser at the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, and was yesterday afternoon cleaning an old revolver at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Washington Bucher, in McKinnon addition. The weapon had not been used for some time, and Marion forgot to remove the cartridges. Without warning the hammer dropped, and a bullet went crashing through his wrist. It entered the flesh and then changing its course, became imbedded in the fleshy part of his arm. A physician probed for the ball, but it could not be found. The bullet does not give the unfortunate young man much pain today, but if it should become annoying he will be taken to a Pittsburgh hospital, the X rays will locate the bullet, and it will be removed.

RESERVED SEATS.

Professor Harper Makes a Change For the Next Recital.

Professor Harper's free song recitals have achieved such great popularity that he has been urged by many, who were unable to get into the church at the last one, to reserve some of the seats, some expressing their willingness to pay 50 cents if they could be sure of a seat at the Thanksgiving recital. The professor objected to reserving any seats whatever, but finally agreed to reserve a hundred at 25 cents each for the accommodation of those who do not wish to take their chances with the crowd. These seats can be obtained at Anderson's drug store, in the Diamond. No seats, however, will be sold on the night of the recital, as all not sold before that time will be free.

Two Rough Looking Men Stopped Mrs. Shenkle.

THEY WANTED ALL HER MONEY

But She Was Frightened, and Ran Until Help Was in Sight—A Bold Attempt in the Heart of the City—The Highwaymen Are Not Known.

The business section of Broadway is a busy place for the operations of highwaymen, and it is not often that thieves so desperate as to attack parties on the square between Third and Fourth streets can be found.

Mrs. Charles Shenkle discovered near 10 o'clock Saturday night that she had some shopping to do, and starting from her home on Third street went to Broadway. When near Church alley she saw two men standing in the shadow. As she approached they walked into the street, and one of them said:

"Miss give me your pocketbook."

Mrs. Shenkle was too frightened to reply, and ran up the hill as fast as possible. The men pursued, but she reached Fourth street without being overtaken. There she saw a pedestrian approaching, and thinking he, too, could not be a thief, she felt safe. At almost the same moment he was espied by the highwaymen, and they disappeared down Broadway. Mrs. Shenkle was scared so she can give but a faint description of the thieves beyond the fact that they were rough looking men.

The Coming Gown.

If there's one thing more certain than another about the coming gown, it is that it will be trimmed. Not just skirt alone, nor yet just bodice alone, but both will be heavily, richly and elaborately burdened with every sort of trimming. Is it that fashion, deprived of her beloved big sleeves, must have some other outlet and finds it in frills and frillings? From present indications it seems likely that plain skirts—skirts, that is to say, unembellished by ruffles or bands or tucks or even a slight drape—will soon have disappeared from mortal view. As for bodices, well, sleeves may be close reefed. But what of the multitudinous flounces and shirings and gatherings and drapings? Surely nothing short of "in full sail" describes them.

Embroidery is the most imperative detail of the coming gown. Have your new fall frock embroidered in however insignificant a way, and you will have given it a stamp that may not, it is true, by right belong to it, but which will mean "from Paris." And most impressive of all, it will mean that your new fall frock will cost "a sight" more than it would unembroidered. The present tendency to trimming altogether, indeed, means that. People may talk about the costliness of simplicity and the price you have to pay for exquisite plainness, but as a matter of fact that sort of thing doesn't really "come near as high" as the velvets, silks, passementerie, embroidery and other delectable devices for wedding pence out of pockets that the present season is so industriously planning.—New York Sun.

A PECULIAR BUSINESS.

Breeding and Catching Leeches For the New York Market.

James Partit and his children earn all the money they make raising leeches, for the work of breeding the blood-suckers on the Partit farm on Toms river, near Lacy, N. J., is nothing compared with the labor of catching them. The wary leech will take hold of nothing but human flesh, so the members of the Partit family, big and little, plunge their legs into the swamp and draw them up presently with the prey attached.

Farmer Partit doesn't seem to think a little blood letting hurts one.

"They are as good as a dose of spring physic," says he. "Why, me and the boys get so fat and healthy doing nothing all winter that we need something like this to keep us in order. If we fished too long at a time, they might do some harm, but we know when to stop. After the season is over we feel fresher and better than if we hadn't been leeching. They are just like mosquitoes—they suck out all the bad blood and leave the good, and that's why, I suppose, we feel so good after a month's work in the swamp. I think we'd all have malaria down in this wet place if it wasn't for the leeches. No man could wade through such a mudhole without getting malaria unless something helped him."

His farm yields 500,000 leeches a year, and the price is 20 or 30 cents for 100, giving an annual income of $1,000 to the family. The market is New York or Philadelphia, where the leeches are distributed to the trade.

Half a century ago this would have been a great business, but the belief in leeches has fallen off in this country. Europe clings to the practice, and Paris consumes 3,000,000 leeches yearly, while London finds use for over 7,000,000 a year.

James Partit or his boys, when wading, discovered the presence of the leeches in his swamps. He looked up the subject and decided that he would supply the American market, which hitherto had depended on Europe. He found that buyers preferred the Hungarian fellow of olive green without spots, or else the German leech, with dark green body spotted below with black. He got a few specimens and put them in the pond. They multiplied rapidly after their enemies, the water snakes, were exterminated, and soon the first leech pond in the country was established. The young are ready for market in about a year, but reproduction takes three years. The average life of a leech is 15 or 20 years. Usually a healthy man can fish in the swamp four or five hours without losing enough blood to exhaust him. The leech has three jaws and from 20 to 90 teeth. When these get going, in a short time the leech will swallow five times his weight in blood.

All this is more pleasant than the practice elsewhere about New York of fattening leeches for the market on decrepit old horses which have been condemned to the boneyard.—New York Press.

GETTING PATENTS.

The Discoverers Are Not Usually the Ones to Reap the Reward.

If you look back on the history of human progress, you will find that none of the great epoch making inventions has ever been patented. The man who lit the first fire—whether Prometheus or the party from whom he stole the idea—did not get a patent for it. Neither did the man who made the first wheel, in every sense one of the most revolutionary inventions in the history of man. The same thing may be said of the invention of soap, candles, gun powder, umbrellas and the mariner's compass, or, to come down to our own day, of the steam engine and the electric telegraph.

Patents are mostly concerned with small mechanical details and improvements—it may be in the application of steam and electricity—and by means of these patents enormous profits have been secured to second rate inventors, but the great ideas and discoveries which underlie these details have been given to the world gratis.

There is a general notion that if you did not protect inventions by means of patents inventors would cease to invent and material progress would come to a standstill. But history does not bear this out in the least. Men with great mechanical gifts do not exercise them solely with a view to commercial profit any more than astronomers search the heavens for new worlds with an eye to registering patents and floating companies on the results of their discoveries.—London Truth.

Plaiting.

Very narrow plaiting is a favorite dress trimming. A costume of gray camel's hair is made up in a plain princess fashion. The waist closes at one side, and the skirt, waist and sleeves are, as one enthusiastic young woman expressed it, absolutely smothered in pinked out ruffles of iridescent taffeta. In addition to the plaiting these ruffles are plaited, then drawn out a little to make fans, which are laid so as to form bands of trimming from shoulders to waist line as outlines for yokes and to supply the place of the almost collapsed sleeves. One dress has an outlined yoke of very narrow pinked and plaited ruffling. From the seams where the sleeves are sewed in are similar ruffles of varying widths, the lower one being about 14 inches wide and the upper one not over 5 inches wide.—New York Ledger.

To change one's nationality in Russia is not at the command of every purse. The first condition is that you should be a landowner for five years at the shortest, and that during the whole of that period you should have resided upon your property in that country. The next condition is that you should take the oath of allegiance to the czar.

When an Englishman becomes a naturalized Norwegian, his wife and children also change their nationality.

FOOD FOR THE FIEND

NEW YORK'S "FIREPROOF" SKYSCRAPERS INVITE A HOLOCAUST.

Once Well Started a Conflagration Might Wipe Out the Best Part of the Business Section—Too Much Iron, Says Chief of Fire Department Bonner.

New York's business section—that part of the city that includes the newest of modern fireproof buildings—is in great danger of being wiped out by fire. Capitalists who furnish the money that pays for erecting these new buildings do not seem to realize this fact, although the veteran chief of the fire department reiterates this statement about once a year. Read what he says.

"That a big section of lower New York some day will be wiped out by fire is probable if existing conditions continue," Fire Chief Bonner said to a Press reporter.

These conditions are the height of the buildings, the material used in their construction, the narrowness of the streets and the inadequacy of the water supply.

It is a favorite argument that if worst came to worst, buildings ahead of a burning area could be blown up, as the farmer turns a dead furrow to check the prairie fire. This theory is not advanced any more by intelligent men, says the chief.

"We can fight a fire 125 feet high, or ten stories. Above that we are well helpless. They say that the modern tall fireproof building needs not as much protection as the ordinary low structure. But the fireproof building is yet to be built. The communists couldn't destroy Paris in 1871 even by the use of barrels of petroleum. In American buildings are all the necessities of a big, hot fire, without the aid of a drop of petroleum. The large structures in foreign cities are built far more solidly than ours. Having fewer forests and less wood, European builders get along with little inside trim of wood. Iron and steel in these days have taken the place in this country of masonry. Nothing withstands fire as well as a well constructed brick wall. Iron columns are covered with four inches of terra cotta or brick, which fire and water can tear off in a short time. Then the stripped iron is left to warp and twist and tumble. I believe the covering should be eight inches.

"With only one night watchman in a building, in danger, like all mortals, of sudden sickness or incapacity, and with no night elevator, a fire could get a good headway in the upper floors of a 20 or 30 story building. Bursting out of the windows and fanned by a strong wind, the flames could easily leap the narrow streets of lower New York and a fire of enormous extent and damage begin.

Most of the new skyscrapers have fire fighting appliances of their own of more or less value. Tanks on the roof and in the cellar are supplied and kept full by various systems, but these are as much for the ordinary requirements of tenants as for possible use in fire. Some of the structures have standpipes inside or outside the wall. Legally there is no way of compelling the builders of what is called a "fireproof" building to put in more than the most ordinary fire appliances, even above the 125 foot line.

Building a 20 story structure is much like building a dwelling house in one respect—there's always deviations from the plans and improvements upon them. For every alteration from the drawings filed with the building department the permission of the board of examiners must be had. If the alterations are proper, consent is granted, but on condition that approved fire appliances be put in the building, particularly in the upper stories. These include a stipulation that at least one elevator shall be ready to run at any time in the night in order that the firemen can get up and down quickly; the putting of hose and fire buckets on each floor, and, usually, a standpipe, with couplings for each floor. When the builders consent to add these equipments and others deemed necessary, including a competent night watch service, permission is granted to make the alterations. This applies, of course, only to buildings under construction recently. Of those already up there is small hope unless the underwriters' offer of lower premiums appeal sufficiently to the pocketbook.

To the end that the fire resistance of building materials shall be known positively, fire tests have been made under the supervision of the superintendent of buildings. Three such public exhibitions already have been held, and they will be continued at intervals through the winter. When finished, Superintendent Constable will make a report to the board of examiners.

The cry for more water in the lower part of the city has been insistent for years. Many have been the plans for reservoirs at the Battery and on either side half a mile or a mile up stream. Every time an extra line of pipe has been laid with the object of furnishing the needed surplus it has been tapped up town. The fire and building departments hope that the two 48 inch mains being laid in Fifth avenue will be left for the relief of the section below Chambers street. Chief Bonner says the Forty-second street reservoir should not be disturbed until water is flowing undiverted through these mains to the locality that needs it most and for which it is intended.

That New York will be brought face to face with grave peril from the 30 storied structures unless precautions plentiful and timely are taken is not doubted by those who have studied the problem of maintaining safety with mountainous firebrands in narrow streets.—New York Press.

PICTURE ON A HILL.

The Long Man of Wilmington, England Measures 240 Feet.

About midway between Berwick and Polegate stations, at a point where the side of the hill is very precipitous, those who know exactly the spot where to look will be able to see from the railway carriage windows a sort of rude imitation of the human form outlined in white. The figure, which is between 200 and 300 feet in height, holds a long staff in each hand. This is "the Long Man of Wilmington," once the center of profound veneration and worship, but now merely an object of interest to the curious.

In order to obtain an adequate idea of this great hillside figure, dominating the surrounding country and appearing to watch as guardian over the little village below, it is desirable to approach it afoot, tramping along the winding lanes, as the pilgrims of old must have tramped when they came hither on the occasion of some great religious festival. Seen from afar, the figure does not appear to be of remarkable size, but gradually, as one approaches the hill, it assumes an imposing and definite shape.

The figure, about 240 feet in height, was merely shaped in the turf so as to allow the chair to appear through. In the course of time these depressions in the surface became almost imperceptible, and to such an extent was the figure neglected that at last it was only possible to make out the form at a distance when the slight hollows were marked by drifted snow or when the oblique rays of the rising or setting sun threw them into a deep shadow. In order to preserve the form of the Long Man, and to render it at a distance easily distinguishable at a single line of outline was marked by a single line of white bricks placed closely together. The effect has been to produce a somewhat startling figure, which is plainly visible in fine weather from a great distance.

There are in different parts of the country other examples of extremely rude and early hillside figures, and, although the very fact of their great antiquity renders it unlikely that historical or documentary evidence will be forthcoming as to their design or precise purpose, it is very satisfactory to find that an explanation has been found which will at once account for many of their peculiarities.

The theory is that these are sacrificial figures. We learn from the writings of Caesar that the Gauls (and the Britons were doubtless included) had figures of vast size, the limbs of which, formed of osiers, they filled with living men. The figure was ultimately fired, and the miserable victims perished in the flames. There is a local saying in Sussex, probably of great antiquity, in which the Long Man is mentioned in reference to the weather. It runs:

When Firth-hill and Long Man has a cap, We at A'ston gets a drap.

SURPRISING THE ORIENTALS.

A Sea of Pigtails Watched a Twist Drill Work.

An interesting account of a visit to a Chinese arsenal near Fuchan is given by a correspondent of Cassier's Magazine. He says:

"Taking out two drills, I sent them in and immediately was invited to enter. The official was polite, bowing and shaking his own hands, as is the custom among Chinamen, and offered me a cup of tea.

"There happened to be several forgings in the room, and as I pressed the drills against them and pointed to over the wall he seemed to comprehend what was wanted, and in a few minutes I was in a large, well lighted machine shop. I might say this extensive plant was built and equipped by French engineers some 15 years ago.

"The native foreman examined my tools with great interest and called in several assistants. All looked puzzled and did not seem to know what they were for. Walking to a drill press, I took out the flat drill, and, after considerable packing around the shank, succeeded in getting one of my taper shank twist drills to run fairly true in the spindle. There must have been 50 Chinamen working in the room, and every one had gathered around this press. The foreman ordered them off repeatedly, and then, looking at me, laughed good naturedly and gave it up.

"He brought a piece of cast iron, but I wanted something harder to drill, so I walked over to a large planer and took a long extension tool, made from 3 by 1 1/2 inch tool steel, and clamped it up to the table of the drill press. He shook his head, intimating that the twist drill could not go through, and the crowd of workmen emitted grunts of approval.

"The press started, the lips of the twist drill turned out two spiral chips. The men elbowed me to one side. There was a sea of pigtailed bending down, watching the marvelous action of that little tool. As the chips grew in length the expressions of wonderment increased.

"It happened that the chips did not break until they were about 14 inches long. Then others started, and each time that they broke off they were eagerly snatched by the men, some burning their fingers, and examined carefully from end to end.

"The dull edges of the drill were shown around and then ground and started again, and the fact that the drill would cut as well as the first time caused increased amazement and murmurs. I have made many tests with twist drills, but never before such an appreciative and demonstrative audience."

Malice.

"I guess I've found a way to take the conceit out of that amateur actress," remarked the girl who is not always good natured.

"How did you do it?"

"Introduced her to an amateur photographer who wanted to take her picture."—Washington Star.
